The Healing Seed Debuts All-Natural Hempseed Oil Personal Care Products at Expo East

Newport Beach, Calif. — Oct. 22, 2008 — The Healing Seed, the newest, most effective line of natural, hempseed oil hair and skin care products, has unveiled its family of innovative health and beauty products. The Healing Seed products are made with virgin organic hempseed oil, drawn by cold pressing the highest-grade hempseeds for the purest quality. This remarkable oil is proven to be exceptionally nutritious, as it is composed of essential fatty acids (EFAs), protein and other key vitamins and minerals.

“Our products all contain the optimal amount of virgin organic hempseed oil for human absorption,” said The Healing Seed co-founder Steven Hellings. “Our formulations are 100% vegan, with no parabens, no artificial colors or perfumes, and no animal testing. We are proud to offer this complete line of healthful skin and hair products that are clean, natural and really work.”

Hempseed oil may be the most nutritious substance on Earth. With the optimal levels of EFAs to benefit the human body, this remarkable oil provides nourishment and protection deep at the cellular level, providing excellent healing, rejuvenating and moisturizing benefits:

- More than 75% of the EFAs in hempseed oil are polyunsaturated fatty acids (PUFAs), known for their excellent emollient, lubricating and healing properties.
- Hempseed oil contains Omega-3 and Omega-6 EFAs in what is considered to be the perfect ratio of 3:1, as well as Omega-9 fatty acid and the rare gamma-linolenic acid (GLA).
- Benefits include anti-inflammatory, anti-aging, antioxidant and moisture-balancing properties.

The essential fatty acids in the oil absorb into the skin and compensate for the lower ceramide levels that come with aging, thereby reducing the appearance of wrinkles. At the Healing Seed, we design all of our products with the optimal blend of virgin organic hempseed oil for the many benefits it brings to your skin and hair.
