Frequently Asked Questions

What makes The Healing Seed different from other hempseed oil products?

The Healing Seed products are formulated with the optimal blend of virgin organic hempseed oil so your skin absorbs the highest amount of essential fatty acids (EFAs), proteins and other key vitamins and minerals for essential dermal nutrition.

What unique properties does hempseed oil have?

Hempseed oil is the most nutritious oil on Earth. More than 75% of the EFAs in hempseed oil are poly-unsaturated fatty acids (PUFAs), known for their excellent emollient, lubricating and healing properties. Hempseed oil contains a balance of Omega-3 and Omega-6 fatty acids in what is considered to be the perfect ratio of 3:1, as well as Omega-9 fatty acid and the rare gamma-linolenic acid (GLA). Benefits include anti-inflammatory, anti-aging, antioxidant and moisture-balancing properties.

Do products with hempseed oil affect drug testing?

No. Because hempseeds for consumer use are cleaned and dehulled prior to pressing, they do not contain any significant amount of THC and, therefore, are completely safe. Besides being great for your skin health, hempseeds and hempseed oil are commonly used in many food products due to their nutritional benefits. And, as our products are made from natural and organic ingredients, The Healing Seed line is safe for use by the entire family.

Are there any other ingredients?

Yes, we supplement our virgin organic hempseed oil with other natural ingredients. Our formulas are not tested on animals and contain no parabens or artificial colors, making them an excellent choice for long-term use by the whole family.

Are The Healing Seed products greasy?

Our formulas are non-greasy and, because of the unique makeup of hempseed oil, they absorb quickly into your skin.

Do they have an odor?

All of our products are delicately scented to enhance your experience. There is no chemical odor associated with the products and the base ingredients we use do not influence the scent of the products.

Are there any common allergic reactions to the products?

An allergic reaction would be extremely rare, as we use natural and organic ingredients in our products. You should always review the ingredients before using and, if you are in doubt, please contact your doctor or allergist before trying our products.

Where does hempseed oil come from?

Hemp is actually native to China and has been grown there for more than 5,000 years. China provides an ideal climate and soil for hemp cultivation; therefore, the virgin organic hempseed oil is the highest quality in the world.

Does The Healing Seed embrace fair-trade practices?

The Healing Seed is committed to fair trade practices. We carefully consider the suppliers of all ingredients.

Are the hempseed crops grown sustainably?

Yes. The hempseed crops are grown without pesticides or herbicides on small family farms in China, just as they have been grown for thousands of years.

Are The Healing Seed products tested on animals?

No, our products are not tested on animals.

Do The Healing Seed products contain any animal ingredients?

No, they are 100% vegan.

Is your packaging recyclable?

Yes. Our bottles are No. 2 HDPE, and our tubes are No. 4 LDPE. Both types of plastic are highly recyclable.

Is there a shelf life?

Yes. Our products come with the “best by” date printed on the packaging.

Do any of the lotions contain sunscreen?

No, our products do not contain sunscreen.

Are the shampoo and conditioner safe for color-treated hair?

Yes, our hair products are all-natural and will not strip color from your hair.

How do the facial products reduce the signs of aging?

The Healing Seed products are made with the optimal blend of virgin organic hempseed oil for essential dermal nutrition, which can reduce signs of aging. How? Essential fatty acids in the oil absorb into the skin and compensate for the lower ceramide levels that accompany aging, thereby reducing the appearance of wrinkles.

How often can you use it?

Our products are safe for daily use. Follow the instructions on each package for optimal benefits.
